The Arizona Journal of Interdisciplinary Studies, in affiliation with Confluencenter for Creative Inquiry and the University of Arizona Division of Student Affairs, invites students to submit papers for its 2016-2017 issue. Articles should be interdisciplinary and may focus on any subject that addresses questions at the intersection of the Humanities, Social Sciences, Arts and other areas of study. Articles may vary in length but should be approximately 3750-5000 words, not including endnotes. Students are encouraged to submit new pieces of original research but may use papers from class such as capstone theses, essays, and research papers. The Journal is printed by the University of Arizona.

Paper Submission Deadline: May 13, 2016

Submission Instructions: Please email your paper to AZ.Journal.IS@gmail.com by Friday, May 13, 2016. Include ‘AZJIS Submission’ in the subject line.

Please format your submission in Chicago Style. On the cover page, include your name, the title, and an abstract. Due to our blind review process, please include your name only on the cover page. Please note that we have a rolling review process and that early submissions prior to the May 13th deadline is strongly encouraged. You will be notified of our selections by May 30, 2016. The issue will be published in October 2016.
