LINGUISTICS 211: LANGUAGE MIND and BRAIN

with professors Noam Chomsky, Tom Bever, and Massimo Piattelli-Palmarini

This fall, learn about language from the founder of modern linguistics, Noam Chomsky!

Tuesdays and Thursdays
October 17-December 11, 2019
5:30-7:30 p.m.

General Education: Tier 2 Individuals and Societies Course

Physics and Atmospheric Sciences Building, Room 201

This 7-week course will use language as a lens into the human mind and brain, exploring how language and other mental abilities are based on a combination of genetic capacities, maturation, experience, and physical constraints.

Learn in the company of students from multiple generations, with both UA students and members of the community welcome!
